TONY BARLOW

THE WAY WE USED TO BE

Lyrics by Tony Barlow

THE WAY WE USED TO BE

TONY BARLOW

Everything changes, but somethings remain the same
Still think about you, darling
Every time I hear your name

Still think about you, darling
When they show those old movies on TV
Still think about you, darling
And the way we used to be

*You and me
Rolling like a river to the sea*

On the highways and the byways
At night I make the rounds
Through the barrooms and the taverns
And the streets of this world's towns
Sometimes I'll go down to the river
And watch it roll into the sea
And it takes me right back to that midnight track

*Where together, you and me
Are the way we used to be
Rolling like a river to the sea*

And your clothes are still where you left them, darling
Lying out there on the floor
And they're still selling your favourite records
Down at the department store
And every time I hear someone
Play that old-time jazzman's melody
It takes me right back to that midnight track

*Where together, you and me
Are the way we used to be
Rolling like a river to the sea*

Now it's last call for drinks
And I guess I'll get another one for the road
As I wonder where all this time between us
Like a river, it has flowed
But as I make my way back home
You know, in my mind and in my memory

*There'll always be a place beyond all time and space
Where together, you and me
Are the way we used to be
Rolling like a river to the sea
From here to eternity
The way we used to be*
